First Presbyterian Preschool Philosophy

First Presbyterian Preschool seeks to reveal and nurture the worth and dignity of each child, while fostering physical, social, spiritual, and intellectual development at the child's own pace. As a Reggio Emilia-inspired school, we believe that each child is full of knowledge and interests, and thrives as a result of an individual approach to learning. Together, students and teachers explore the world around them, creating learning landscapes where they can reason and construct, shaping their intellectual and social potential. Sponsored by a Christian church, we share with our children the stories of our religious heritage, and also welcome and engage with the rich diversity of faith traditions in our community.

Adair Margo Financial Aid Fund

At First Presbyterian Preschool, it is our highest priority to provide our individual learning approach to children in our community. We understand there are times that our tuition can be a burden on some families due to difficult circumstances. For that reason, we have the Adair Margo Financial Aid Fund. We raise funds each year to support this scholarship fund.

Aid Opportunities

- 1) Need-based Aid – 10 months of the school year for families that cannot afford the full cost of the First Presbyterian Preschool Tuition.
- 2) Hardship Aid – 5 months of the school year for families with an immediate financial need that should be resolved in a few months. Hardship applicants can reapply each semester as per their need.

Deadline

Financial Aid applications can be submitted as need arises. However, as the fund is limited, the deadline for current students to be considered for a scholarship for the full following school year is April 30. Any applications received after this deadline will be considered by the Finance Committee of the First Presbyterian Preschool Board of Directors at their monthly meeting. The aid will not be retroactive to the beginning of the semester or academic year. Scholarships are only awarded for the Regular Day program.
